

Editorial – v. 1, n. 1

We present the first number of the first volume of the South Florida Journal of Development (SFJD).

The SFJD arose from the perception of professors and researchers about the need to create new scientific vehicles whose mission is the dissemination of research on development, not only in Brazil, but also in Latin America. In this sense, this new scientific journal was created.

We wish the readers a great and enjoyable reading.
