Editorial – v. 3, n. 4

We present the third number of the third volume of the South Florida Journal of Health (SFJH).

The SFJH arose from the perception of professors and researchers about the need to create new scientific vehicles whose mission is to disseminate health research, not only in Brazil, but also in the world. In this sense, this new scientific journal was created.

This number, as well as all the previous ones, brought important contributions to the area of development. Access and check it out!

We wish the readers a great and enjoyable reading.
